A catch up with...

Isabel Bardsley-Garcia - Director of Information Security & Technology at Helion

What did you want to do when you 'grew up'?

I wanted to either be an accountant or a veterinarian.

University or school of life?

Definitely school of life when it comes to information security and IT.

Who was, or still is, your idol?

Idolization isn't something that I'm capable of. I may appreciate someone for something specific that they have done or may ask guidance from someone on something that they are an expert on, but I have never idolized anyone.

Ambition or talent, what matters more to success?

Depends on your definition of success. If you define success by how high up a ladder you've gone or how much money you make, then ambition matters more. If you define success by what you have been able to create or develop that has contributed to society, then talent is what matters more.

What would you like to own that you don't already?

A dog, but I'm allergic and travel too much.

What is your biggest extravagance?

What ambitions do you still have?

I want to build a comprehensive information security program for a company whose mission I believe in.

What do you find irritating in other people?

Intentional carelessness.

If your 20yr old self saw you now, what would they think?

She would think that I've become much more than she thought she could ever be.
